Tune Name: RECREATOR

Born as an outcast, a peasant and slave,
 Isaiah's forecast, the One who would save;
 Expected to rule as king on a throne,
 But scorned as a fool and spurned by His own;
 For love was His theme, to serve was His creed,
 The hopeless redeem by word and by deed;
 Born of Creator - God's child come to earth -
 And Recreator, the source of rebirth.

Trained as a builder - a worker in wood,
 As a rebuilder, the broken make good;
 When taught by His own their workings and word,
 Disowned by His own, as God's will He heard;
 For love was His theme, to serve was His creed,
 The hapless redeem by word and by deed;
 Trained as Creator, man's part of God's skill,
 And Recreator on earth of God's will.

Lived as a teacher, the molder of thought,
 Daily beseecher that knowledge be sought;
 That freedom be earned as Truth became known,
 And God's will discerned as Truth's seeds were sown;
 For love was His theme, to serve was His creed,
 The haughty redeem by word and by deed;
 Lived as Creator - in place before time,
 And Recreator of wisdom sublime.

Died as redeemer, a pure sacrifice -
 No fool or schemer, but free of all vice;
 Expected to reign and never know loss,
 But writhed in deep pain enduring the cross;
 For love was His theme, to serve was His creed,
 The helpless redeem by word and by deed;
 Died, though Creator, the triunal Son,
 Yet Recreator, since new life He won.
